

Abstract

A structure is provided that is formed with a template defining a pattern having nanoscale features. The template may be positioned on a substrate and include a resist layer having openings formed therein, where the template is configured to accommodate the controlled 5 assembly of nanoscale objects.